Summary

Jean Cook spent her childhood in Quorn, South Australia. For a time she lived in Perth, Western Australia before returning to South Australia and living in Adelaide. She conducted some of her music studies under Maude Mary Puddy, a teacher of piano. Cook also taught music and was a teacher at Girton Girls' School (Kensington Park, S. A.). A member of the Lyceum club's embroidery circle, she also was involved with the English Embroiderers' Guild. She helped embroider the Coat of Arms for the Law Court in Adelaide.
