

The Australian Women's Register

Entry type: Person
Entry ID: AWE0854

Ladkin, Marjorie Lina

(1915 - 2009)

Born 1 January, 1915, Sydney New South Wales Australia

Died 23 February, 2009

Occupation Nurse, Union organiser

Summary

Marjorie Ladkin, née Soady, was born in Sydney, New South Wales. In 1933 she began training at the Sydney Hospital, and upon graduation worked for a nursing agency. She was the first full-time secretary of the Royal Australian Nursing Federation (South Australia Branch) serving in this position from 1965-1975. The successful development of the Branch is largely due to her dedication and drive and, innovations advocated by Ladkin have resulted in a better ratio of staff/patient care. On 13 June 1983 Marjorie Ladkin was awarded an Order of the Order of Australia for service to nursing.

Published resources

Resource

Trove, National Library of Australia, 2009

Archival resources

State Library of South Australia

[Interview with Marjorie Ladkin \[sound recording\] Interviewer: Joan Durdin](#)

Author Details

Robin Secomb

Created 7 April 2004

Last modified 21 August 2015