

The Australian Women's Register

Entry type: Person
Entry ID: IMP0113

Nashar, Beryl

(1923 - 2012)

Born 9 July, 1923, Newcastle New South Wales Australia

Died 5 May, 2012, Waratah New South Wales Australia

Occupation Political activist

Summary

Nashar was Head, Department of Geology, Newcastle University College and University of Newcastle 1961-1980, Associate Professor 1964-1965, Professor of Geology 1965-1980 and Emeritus Professor since 1980. She was the first Australian to be awarded a PhD in geology from an Australian University and the first woman dean of science in an Australian university. Her early research addressed the geology of the Stanhope district in the Hunter Valley. This was later extended to embrace the mineralogy, geochemistry and genetic relations of the Carboniferous and Permian andesitic associations of eastern New South Wales, and the conditions of formation of secondary minerals in these andesitic and basic rocks. She was appointed OBE – The Order of the British Empire – Officer (Civil) – 1 January 1972 for her work in education and international relations.

Published resources

Resource Section

Interview with Professor Beryl Nashar [conducted by Ms Nussy Allen on 1 March 2001], Australian Academy of Science, <http://www.science.org.au/scientists/nashar.htm>

Nashar, Beryl (1923 -), Biographical Entry, 2002, <http://www.asap.unimelb.edu.au/bsparcs/biogs/P004128b.htm>

Resource

Where are the Women in Australian science?, Australian Science and Technology Heritage Centre, 2003, <http://www.austehc.unimelb.edu.au/wisa/wisa.html>

Trove, National Library of Australia, 2009

Site Exhibition

Faith, Hope and Charity Australian Women and Imperial Honours: 1901-1989, Australian Women's Archives Project, 2003, <http://www.womenaustralia.info/exhib/honours/honours.html>

Author Details

Austehc

Created 15 August 2002
Last modified 16 September 2013