

The Australian Women's Register

Entry type: Organisation

Entry ID: PR00668

Geelong District Nursing Society

(1907 -)

Born 1 February, 1907, Geelong Victoria Australia

Occupation Voluntary community support organisation

Summary

The Geelong District Nursing Society (For Nursing the Sick Poor in their own Homes) was founded on 1 February 1907. An initial meeting was convened by Geelong's Lady Mayoress, Mrs Bostock, in October 1906, which was presided over by the mayor, and a committee formed of volunteer workers. The first nurse, Miss Edwards, was engaged and began work on 31 January 1907. By the mid-twenties, a car had been purchased for the nurses' use. The Society was funded by donations, bequests and subscriptions, grants from the Hospitals and Charities Commission, and collections, and received support from the Geelong Hospital. The Society applied to the Ladies' Benevolent Society when help was needed for a patient, relieved distress where extra nourishment was needed, and distributed parcels donated by Geelong societies to patients at Christmas. Though they deleted the words 'poor and needy' from the description of their work in 1960, by 1980 demand for the Society's services had risen, because of the aging population, the policy of early discharge from hospital, and the desire to nurse the aged and terminally ill in their own homes.

Published resources

Resource

Trove, National Library of Australia, 2009

Archival resources

Geelong Heritage Centre

Geelong & District Nursing Service

Author Details

Janet Butler

Created 21 September 2009

Last modified 5 October 2009