Jessie Street National Women's Library

(1989 -)

Born 1 January, 1989, Sydney New South Wales Australia

Summary

The Jessie Street National Women's Library is a specialist library which aims to promote awareness of the cultural heritage of Australian women. It includes a library and archival collection which focus on issues of importance to women, as well as documenting the lives and experiences of women. Its collection of books was founded by a donation of 500 feminist books. The collection now includes feminist journals, an oral history collection, fiction, posters and archival materials.
